Sheriff Harring, of Hackensack, and His Men Monting for "Phil" Mann, Who So Erutally Beat Old Robert McDonald.

WOULD LIKE TO HANG THE MULATTO.

Cherry Hill People Greatly Excited Over "Irish Bob's" Death, for He Was Popular, Though Not Exactly an Ornament to Society.

There are many men in Cherry Hill, N. J., who would enjoy nothing better than a chance to hang "Phil" Mann, the worthless ex-convict, the story of whose murderous assault on Hobert McDonald was told in yesterday's HERALD. McDonald, or "Irish Bob," as he was amiliarly called, was not regarded as exactly an ornament even to Cherry Hill society, which is not at all atrict in the matter of enforcing social distinctions, for "Irish Bob" was not at all particular about what sort of company he kept and never missed an opportunity to get drunk,

But, drunk or sober, he was always a good natured, happy-go-lucky nort of fellow, and his neighbors feel that he deserved a better fate than that which has overtaken him.

Dr. St. John, of Hackensack, yesterday performed an autopsy on the body, and though there were many cuts and bruises about the head and shoulders, he announced that the immediate cause of death was pneumonia, which had developed suddenly and was due to exposure, and that the injuries which he had received were not of themselves MANN MAY ESCAPE HANGING.

next Wednesday. Coroner Hill, of Hackensack, after swearing in a jury and viewing the body yesterday, granted a burial permit, and the body of "Irish Bob" will be put under ground to-day. He won't be buried in a pauper's grave, for he had some money saved up, or rather it had been saved for him by George Leggett, who keeps the store at Cherry Hill.

McDonald was a native of Beifast, Ireland, and was about fifty years old. He followed the sea for many years, but about sixteen years ago he took to farming.

married the widow, but she did not survive her first husband long.

She left a will, however, by which her income of $40 a month was passed over to McDonald. That and what he made by odd jobs sufficed to support him, and realising that his weakness for liquor rendered him incapable of taking care of his money he got Storekeeper Leggett to handle it and dole it out to him in instalments.

ATTHE MANN WITH A POSSE.

Sheriff Haring had a posse cut hunting for Mann all day yesterday, but up to a late hour had not succeeded in catching him.

The Sheriff is certain, however, that Mann capnot escape discovery long. He is supposed to be hiding somewhere in the Hamapo Mountains, where has many friends and acquaintances among the colored people.

along, although MiDonaid told him plainly that his company wasn't vanted.

Mann brought lis wife and children back to the Sisco place about one o'clock. He said nothing about what had hippened at McDonaid's.

On Friday morning John Sisco went to McDonaid's house. He found the old man on a cot, apparently unconsectus, his face covered with blood, which was spattend all over the room. It was bitterly cold and these was no fire in the house.

OULLIT FLIGHT.

When Mann heard of McDonaid's condition he hastily departed and bade his wife and children fellow him. But before his wife left the Siscos' she told Mrs. Sisco that her insband, on the night previous, had savagely beaten McDonaid, relling him to the groupit and samping on his face and body with his bit hobrailed boots, and had even called for an axe vith which to kill him.

McDonaid died it seven o'clock on Friday night. Before he died he told several people who were at his bedside that Annu had beaten him.

Mann is a multto. He has often been in fail and he served twysears in State Frison for a murderous assault on loseph Van Riper at Eina eight years ago.

Superintendent Charles Hankinson has pressed the "dockers" at closely during the past few years that few if any operations have been recently performed within the city limits. Several weeks ago he learned that several fashionable people who ity to ape the Inglish had "docked" several valuable carriage horses. He learned where the "docking" process had been done and procured warrants for the arrest of the perpetrators. He tacks evidence, lowever, to prove the completty of some of the owners, and he will make no arrests until he has it secured.

last night, to disclose the names of the parties.

The number of "docked" horses have increased rapidly of late.

The owners claim that the horses were imported or brought from the West.

The last convictions secured were those of several grooms of a prominent pole club at dedarhurst, L. L. who "docked" the tails of twenty pole ponies. They were fined $6 cach and sentenced to serve three months each in prison. Two of the men convicted were Englishmen imported to "dock" the tails of ponies for the club.

ROBBERT OF TWO STORES. Eight alleged burglars and their accomplices were arrested by the Long Island City police yesterday. They are John Rankin, twenty-six years old, a plasterer; William Rankin, twenty-three years old, a junkman; Catherine Rankin, forty years old, a housekeeper; Lizzie Hankin, seventeen years old, a servant; Kate Hankin, twenty-one years old; James Mulleniff, seventeen years old, and Charles Shannon, a blacksmith, twenty-eight years old. The Rankins were arrested at their residence, No.

The Rankins were arrested at their residence, No. 14 Queens street, by Folicemen Mulligan and Bonjour, who also arrested Mulleniff at his home, No. 259 Jackson avenue, and Shannon at No. 311, on the same thoroughtare.

The prisoners are charged with breaking into the store of John Warkonitz, at No. 303 Jackson avenue, on Friday night, and also with robbing the dry goods store of Levy Solishey, at No. 329 Jackson avenue, on the same night.

A considerable amount of property was taken from both places, Folicemen Mulligan and Bonjour learned that Shannon and the Rankins were seen loitering about the stores on the night in question, and on warrants issued by Justice Karangh arrested the entire party.

They searched the Rankin house and discovered a secret hiding place of the thieves beneath the stoop of the house. The antrance was from the cellar. Upon crawing through it on his hands and knees the policeman found several bags fill of the stolen boots and snoes and dry goods, which he conflucated.

The prisoners were locked up and Shannon later

The Sheriff is certain, however, that Mann cannot stoape diacovery long. He is supposed to be hid ng somewhere in the Ramapo Mountains, where has many friends and acquaintances among the lolered people.

The mystery of the assault was pretty well cleared up yesterday. McDonald lived alone in a numbledown house. His immediate neighbors are learly all colored people.

On Thursday night he paid a visit to one of their hanties, which was occupied by John Sisco and its wife. He was accompanied by "Dutch John," whose home was a few statious beyond Cherry Hill.
